EDUCATION

PhD Washington State University, Entomology May 2020
Dissertation title: “Pollinator Communities Across Agricultural Gradients”
Committee: Dr. David Crowder, Dr. Walter Sheppard, Dr. William Pan

B.A., B.Sc. The Evergreen State College
June 2014
B.Sc. Agricultural Sciences
B.A. Community Food System Development

HONORS AND AWARDS

USDA Technical Assistance for Specialty Crops (Co-P.I. $1.1m)	2021
Grant supporting a three-year research project studying honey bee colony health and support to develop tools for beekeepers to monitor and support colony placement decisions for improved bee health and economic value
USDA Predoctoral Fellowship (P.I. $95,000)	2017
Fellowship to study the pollinator communities in canola of eastern Washington and northern Idaho
Western SARE Graduate Grant (P.I. $24,870)	2015
Grant to study non-bee pollinator communities across a gradient of urbanization in western Washington diversified farming systems
Honorable Mention, NSF Graduate Research Fellowship Program	2015, 2016
Travel Award, Entomological Society of America ($300)	multiple
Donald Hastings Entomology Scholarship ($600)	2015
Travel Award, Entomological Society of America ($300)	multiple

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Post-Doctoral Research Associate, Washington State University, Pullman WA 2020 – present
Advisor: Dr. Brandon Hopkins

- To date, mentored four graduate students, one undergraduate student
- Primary grant writer on several funded grants, including $1.1m grant from USDA TASC program

PhD, Washington State University, Pullman WA 2015-2020
Advisor: Dr. David Crowder

- Qualifying Exam Passed: Feb 17, 2017
- Won over $100,000 in grants to support this research, presented approximately two dozen talks, webinars, and workshops over the course of degree

Washington State University, Puyallup WA 2014-2015

Research Technician, Crowder Lab

- Collected data to support Elias Bloom's dissertation research
- Assisted in teaching pollinator citizen science presentations

The Evergreen State College, Olympia WA 2013-2014

WSU Extension Intern, Thurston County Extension

- "Guide to Agriculture in Thurston County" Summary and bulletin for anyone interested in pursuing agriculture in Thurston County, WA. Included brief summary of county, city, and non-incorporated areas for full county
- "Populations of ground beetles in organic versus GMHT corn fields in the Pacific Northwest" A brief observational survey comparing ground beetle populations on two types of farming systems in rural Thurston County. Fulfilled writing requirement of independent research and writing component of B.Sc.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

WSU CEREO Data Workshop March 2021

Teaching Assistant, R workshops

Washington State University, Pullman WA Fall 2016, 2017

Teaching Assistant, Stats 511

- TAed Stats 511, a graduate course averaging 40 students per semester, covering the following topics: experimental design, scientific writing, basic and intermediate statistical tests, using the R programming language
- Developed lab walkthroughs, tutorials for R
- Assisted in grading homework, exams for Dr. Crowder

Washington State University, Pullman WA Spring 2016

Teaching Assistant, Entomology 102

- TAed Entomology 102, an undergraduate course averaging 80 students per semester, covering the following topics: medical and veterinary entomology, understanding the scientific method, basic scientific literacy
- Wrote lectures, assignments, and quizzes for labs
- Assisted in grading exams and assignments for lecture portion for Dr. Owen

Washington State University, Pullman WA Fall 2016

Teaching Assistant, AFS 101

- TAed AFS 101, an undergraduate course averaging 80 students per semester, covering the following topics: global food systems, agricultural social science, basic science literacy, human nutrition
- Developed assignments, in-class activities, and quizzes

Graduate Students Mentored

- Anna Webb, graduated 2021
- Connor Auth, graduated 2021
- Stephen Onayemi, graduated 2021
- Em Rendleman, expected graduation 2022

Undergraduate Students Mentored

- Riley Reed, graduated 2021
- Wyatt Mattingly, expected graduation Spring 2022
- Lucy Eggleston, graduated Spring 2019
- Konnor Flemming, graduated Spring 2017

Other teaching experience

- Assisted Elias Bloom in delivering citizen science workshops throughout 2015-2017
- Athletics tutor for WSU athletics department

The Evergreen State College, Olympia WA
Lab Instructor, Ecological Agriculture

Fall 2013- Spring 2014

- Prepared lectures, lab assignments, and insect identification instruction over the course of the quarter
